

In Jail

Read the paragraphs (a to e) from a novel. Then put them in the correct order by completing the table below. There is an example at the beginning (0). Start with paragraph a.

In Jail excerpt from a novel by Mark Haddon

|                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| a) It was 1:12am when Father arrived at the police station. I did not see him until 1:28am, but I knew he was there because I could hear him.         |
| b) I stepped outside. Father was standing in the corridor. He held up his right hand and spread his fingers out in a fan.                             |
| c) I held up my left hand and spread my fingers out in a fan, and we made our fingers and thumbs touch each other.                                    |
| d) A policeman opened the door of the cell and told me there was someone to see me.                                                                   |
| e) We do this because sometimes Father wants to give me a hug, but I don't like hugging people, so we do this instead, and it means that he loves me. | text: © from The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night - time by Mark Haddon, published by Jonathan Cape. Reprinted by permission of The Random House Group Ltd.

| 0 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| a |   |   |   |   |